

Ned Paul in association with

Learn Bridge in a Weekend

At Young Chelsea Bridge Club, 32 Barkston Gardens, LONDON, SW5 0EN

Sat.-Sun. 10th/11th April 2010 : 10.30am-5.30pm each day

Course Outline: Learn Bridge in a Weekend is a complete course for beginners. It assumes no prior knowledge. We start with the mechanics of bridge, the basics of card play and how to value your hand correctly. The concept of bidding is introduced and the need for a structured bidding system. The bidding system used is the English Bridge Union's Standard English (or 'Acol') system but the principles learnt are the same for all bidding systems and are easily adapted for other national or international bidding systems. Every stage of the course is accompanied by appropriate 'hands-on' practice deals. On Sunday afternoon we finish with participants playing their first short competition.

Course Leader: Ned Paul is a full-time professional bridge teacher and a member of the English Bridge Union Teachers Association. Learn Bridge in a Weekend has had excellent results in the past and references are available.

Cost: The course fee including tuition, playing practice and full documentation is £85 per person. Lunch is taken outside the Club each day and is at participants' expense.
